

Vision of Armageddon

Editor The Chronicle—Sir: Referring to letter of Edward Le Roy Moore of San Diego in The Chronicle Safety Valve, October 29, please know that the final battle of Armageddon will not be at Lake Baikal in Siberia, but on or near the shores of the Sea of Galilee.

The Japanese will come through Siberia, and other points as far as the Khirgis steppes around Aral sea, but when and whether with or against the Russians is left unsaid. The princes of India and their countless warriors, the mighty from the far islands of the South seas and Australia will come via the ocean and via Iran, Afghanistan, Irak and Syria to the old stamping ground on the navel of the Eastern hemisphere, and there will also be the Britons, the Irse, the Americans, the Russians, the Africans, the Europeans, the Chinese and the Japanese—in short, the massed might of all the races of human kind will be there, and there they will perish in bursts of brilliant horror. Ashes to ashes, dust to dust! Fins for the age! Requiescat in pace! to another foolish humanity that could not and would not see its Savior when he came.
