

Burrowing

Editor—I, for one, agree with The Chronicle editorial of October 25 that training our youths in present-time military tactics would be of little value if an attacking power, striking without warning, could destroy most of our country overnight—which is possible if the enemy has prepared beforehand sufficient atomic weapons.

Nevertheless, I believe our youth should be trained and, in fact, the whole country should now be mobilized and set to work to create new habitations for the populations, build new cities inside the mountains and far beneath the surface of the high plateaus. In the next War nothing will be safe on the surface and as far down as 100 to 200 feet below the surface.

OLE J. SNEIDE,

San Francisco.