

THE LIFE PRINCIPLE AND THE REINCARNATING EGO

Editor The Chronicle—Sir: The ideas expressed in R. F. Berkeley's letter to the Safety Valve about the effects of capital punishment have been mine for a long time. By all means eliminate the murderer and all other persons dangerous to the welfare of human society. The keeping of such persons in idleness places upon the law-abiding citizens of the State an enormous and unfair handicap. By all means let them be eradicated via the avenue of forced physical dissolution of those chemical compounds we call the visible human body and thereby speed the hampered life principle (or spirit or soul), more correctly stated, the reincarnating ego, on to new and better incarnation.

OLE J. SNEIDE.

Robbins, Cal., June 28, 1931.